

UJJAIN SATELLITE CAMPUS

IIT Indore's plan ready, but awaiting central funds

OUR STAFF REPORTER

city.indore@fpj.co.in Indian Institute of Technology Indore has made all preparations from its side to start the satellite campus in Ujjain, but it has to wait till the central government approves the plan and provides fund for construction of the campus. Suhas Joshi, director, IIT Indore said, "We have already decided that 200 acre of the land will be used for the construction of the campus and the remaining land is reserved as forest area and will remain untouched. For this we have presented our proposal to the central government and are waiting their approval." P-3