Government Holkar Science College on Wednesday sent a team to Indian Institute of Technology Indore to see its laboratories and departments.

"The team visited and saw the state-of-art-labs of IIT Indore. Some days back, the team had also visited IIM Indore and saw their smart classes," principal Suresh Silawat said.

He stated that the college is looking forward to expand its infrastructure and for that it is seeing facilities at elite institutes in the country.

"Our teams will also go to Indian Institute of Science, Bangaluru and IIT Delhi and see their classrooms, labs and other facilities," Silawat said.

Holkar College, which is the leading science college of the state, will get a whopping grant of nearly Rs 25 crore under World Bank and other projects.

The amount will be spent on development of nine labs, an e-library and three buildings for departments. Besides, other facilities would also be added to the institute.

The college's cricket ground, which is in tatters, will also be re-developed.
