Indore: With a 1 lakh dollar job offer, a Indian Institute of Technology, Indore (IIT-I) student is ready to make it big in the US. The offer, first international placement from US-based software giant made the girl student and her family ecstatic. Daughter of a city-based real estate businessman, Shivani Gupta, the final year computer science stream student is the first one in the past two batches to bag an international job offer.

Gupta has received the offer through off-campus mode for which she appeared for written test and interview held by US-based Epic System. "It is an exciting time for me and my family members. Last year, few students, who had appeared for the test, could not make it. I will be leaving for the US once I get the visa. Visa process will start from April," Gupta said.

The techno-freak girl realized her dream of becoming a software engineer when she was in school. She took coaching from Kota in Rajasthan. Shivani cleared the examination in first attempt and took computer science at IIT-I. Prior to the big offer from the software giant, Microsoft gave her a chance to join them even during internship. She was offered a package of Rs 16.5 lakh per annum.

"During internship I met few like-minded people and decided to apply on my own in companies but I could not have managed if professors had not given recommendations. I prepared sincerely and finally got what I wanted."

A few years hence, she aims to pursue management from top B-schools of the world and start venture in tech field. "I am at initial stage of my career so I would like to get experience and exposure from the job," she said.
